Arrow points to Victor Chapman.

Victor Chapman, one of the best known of the American aviators fighting for the allies, is shown telling the story of the battle in which he was wounded to a group of French officers. A few hours later he went up again, and it was his last flight.

WORKS RAPS BUT VOTES FOR CHILD LABOR MEASURE

Inconsistency of California Senator Known as Equal. He Argues Invasion of State's Rights.

(By Review Leased Wire.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Senators Pomeroy, Hastings and Vandam, Democrats, and Worley, Republican, attacked the administration child labor bill with constitutional arguments in the Senate today, the former insisting that if it were upheld nothing would be left of states' rights, and the latter declaring it a step directly toward a despotic centralization of power.

The bill was defended by Senators Pomeroy, Hastings and Vandam, Democrats. Senator Hastings declared opponents of the measure were hiding their real sentiments behind the constitutional question. Senator Brandegee, Republican, announced he believed the measure invaded the rights of the states.

Despite his belief that it is unconstitutional, Senator Worley said he would vote for the bill, because he thought the supreme court should finally pass on the question. He criticized southern senators supporting it, charging that they were too willing to give up the rights of their state governments.

"The tendency to surrender the sovereignty of the states is particularly apparent among the Democrats," he said. "I have come to think that they will surrender any of their sovereign rights if they can get the price for them from the national body.

CHIHUAHUA RAINS TO START GREENERY AND STOP FAMINE

Distress of Peons Soon to be Lessened, General Trevino Goes to Confer With First Chief.

EL PASO, Aug. 7.—Heavy rains falling today over Chihuahua brought a promise of relief to some of the famine swept districts of the state. Mexican authorities in Juarez pointed out that with two or three more heavy falls shortly crops would be given an impetus such as will alleviate in a large measure the distress of the state. Several carloads of foodstuffs from the border have reached the Parra district, where suffering was most acute.

Passengers reaching the border from Chihuahua City said that General Trevino commanding the Carranza army of the northwest plans to leave late in the week for Mexico City where he will confer with Carranza on the industrial rehabilitation of northern Mexico. During his absence, which will be for a period of about two months, it has been announced, Colonel Lopez Ortiz, chief of arms of the garrison, will assume General Trevino's duties. The arrival added that with the recent proclamations from General Carranza that official regulation of prices in connection with the use of paper money is no longer taking on a brighter appearance.

N. Y. SURFACE CAR LINES ARE RUNNING AND STRIKE ENDS

(By Review Leased Wire.)
NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—The strike on the surface railway lines here, which threatened to extend to other subway and elevated systems and thus completely tie up transportation facilities in Greater New York virtually came to an end tonight.

Directors of the New York Railway Company and the Third Avenue Railway Company, the two principal lines involved, voted after being deadlocked for 12 hours to accept a plan of settlement proposed by Mayor Mitchell and Oscar S. Straus, chairman of the public service commission, after representatives of the strikers had agreed to it. It was then announced that normal service would be resumed tomorrow morning on the lines which ratified the agreement.

One of the concessions in the settlement gives to the employees the right to organize, which was the issue the strike leaders said they were determined should be fought to the end.

"The settlement between employees and officials of the New York Railway Company and the Third Avenue Railway Company makes it inevitable that the other lines must settle their differences," declared Mayor Mitchell.

Officials of the Second Avenue Railway, the Richmond Light and Power Company, and the New York and Queens County Company were invited by Mayor Mitchell to meet with him and Mr. Straus tomorrow morning to consider measures to end the strike on those lines. President Theodore P. Shontz issued a statement calling on the strikers to "let bygones be bygones and get to work, giving New York the best street railroad service in the world."

An active campaign will be carried on by the Democrats in more states this year than ever before, the two leaders said after their talk with the President. No states will be conceded to the Republicans, they declare. The Democratic organizations in Republican strongholds are being strengthened with the idea of putting up a fight all along the line.

Selection of the Democratic campaign committee has been almost completed, Mr. McCormick announced and its personnel will be announced within a few days.

Plans for winning the women voters will be pushed actively, according to Mr. McCormick in spite of the announcement of Charles E. Hughes, the Republican nominee, that he favors a federal suffrage amendment. A woman's bureau at the New York headquarters will be organized in the near future.

world as a man of learning, of skill, of experience, of power."

"Sap" for Employees

Mr. Hughes also laid stress on what he termed the need for industrial brotherhood and closer co-operation between employers and employees. There was no capitalistic class, no laboring class in prosperity, he said, but the prosperity of the country or its lack affected all citizens. It behooved the men responsible for the policies of the country, he said, to look forward to the day when Europe, at peace, would wage fierce commercial competition with America and guard American workmen against that time.

After his main address, Mr. Hughes delivered a second address at the Light Guard armory, in which he reiterated many of the statements made in the first address. Mr. Hughes spent a strenuous day in the stifling heat of Detroit. He made six speeches between noon and 10 o'clock tonight. The first talk of the day was delivered in a little room of the hotel which he made his headquarters and was addressed to about 40 manufacturers. The second address, delivered in the same room, was on suffrage.

Not Suffrage Talk

One hundred women heard him repeat his New York declaration that he wanted the question speedily settled granting women the vote through amendment to the federal constitution. After lunch the nominee went to the ball game. He shook hands with members of the Detroit and Philadelphia American league teams and watched an inning of the game. Then he motored away to two of Detroit's big automobile factories and addressed crowds at each.

Shakes 2000 Hands

Between speeches he held many short conferences with local political leaders, shook hands with about 2000 persons, and managed to find time for two short naps. He left late tonight for Chicago.

Discussing the administration's policy with Mexico Mr. Hughes said:

The Mexican Must.

"We had certain things that we had a right to demand of Mexico; and there was a proper way of demanding them. We should have said that we insisted upon the protection of the lives and property of American citizens, of just protection, such protection as we are entitled to from a government that performs the functions of government. We could have said we would not recognize Huerta if his government could not discharge those functions. We had no business to recognize him unless the executive was satisfied he could discharge those functions. But it was another thing to take an attitude quite apart from the protection of American rights, and wage war upon an individual and try to take control of Mexican affairs, in the idea of what we think they should be."

"This was what was done. We did not content ourselves with not recognizing Huerta. There is no question of recognizing or not recognizing Huerta. But our administration said to Huerta:

Mistreated Huerta

"You get out, you can't even be a candidate. We won't allow you to run for office. We are so determined to get rid of you that you can't put yourself up to be voted for, and immediately after recognition was withdrawn it was extended to that incomparable, that ideal character, Villa."

How Peace Kept

"Well, the Mexicans didn't understand our attitude, there was a fight and nineteen Americans and large numbers of Mexicans were killed. Yet the administration says that they kept us out of war."

Flirted With Villa

"Having gotten rid of Huerta, what next did we do? We said, 'let these Mexicans spill as much blood as they want to, that is their blessed privilege.' So we coquetted with Villa, we coquetted with Carranza, and we showed our disposition to favor any bandit in the land."

"Raps Expedition

"I never heard of a more extraordinary exhibition than our punitive expedition. It was a military expedition or not. If it was not a military expedition, what was it? It went down between two lines of railroads. It could not use either. Our American troops went mile after mile for hundreds of miles into Mexico on a punitive expedition right between two lines of railroads which they could not touch. They could not go to a town. It was an absurdly arranged expedition. Of course it could not succeed. Of course we got into trouble and more blood was spilled."

"Let the Mexicans understand once for all that we do not intend to meddle with their affairs, that we desire that they shall perform their obligations to us, to protect our citizens, protect them justly in the enjoyment of their lives and their property; that they will perform the guarantees that they have given us and when we shall have peace and happiness."

"If they can establish a stable government we will do all that we can to support it. Talk about policy, what is the president's policy? Does any one know? Has the executive ever had a policy for more than six months on the Mexican question? I repeat, who knows, today, what the policy of the administration will be three months from now?"

"We are going to insist that these obligations of Mexico to America be performed; that we do not propose any meddlesome policy; that we do not propose to do anything that is contrary to their wishes, if they do what we are entitled to have done. Put that clearly before them, insist upon that and we will make some progress towards having it done at the earliest opportunity and our position should be to see that it is done."

"There is not a particle of militarism in my composition, but there is a sturdy determination if I am put in a place of executive responsibility representing all the American people, to see to it—and that is my purpose—that American rights are safeguarded, and that America's name in administration, in policy, and in executive action, is shown throughout the world."

Careless Use of Soap Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulled coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoons will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulled coconut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.
